REMEMBER THE TURTLE. HE WON.
KILLING TWO MEXICANS.
THE POPE'S STRONG PROTEST

Following the national birthday, a new year started for the United States this week, and started fairly cheerfully. It is a good time for men that want success to start hard work.

An hour's real work in July, when the average man waits for cooler weather, is worth a whole day's work in winter. The turtle won his race while the hare was asleep.

Two young Mexicans, relatives of Ortiz Rubio, president of the Mexican republic, were returning from a United States college, at which they were students, when a deputy sheriff in Oklahoma shot them both dead, "on suspicion."

Two youths had committed no crime, except that they carried weapons for self-defense. The fact that both were killed without good cause seems to justify their being armed.

Ortiz Rubio, Mexican president, who had two sons studying at the college from which the two young men were returning home when shot dead, has ordered his sons to leave the United States and take up their studies in Canada, which shows intelligence. You would hardly want your sons to study in a country where they might be killed because some one did not like their complexion.

Mexico, it is said, will bring suit against Oklahoma for one million dollars for the doubling, killing, alleging that justice was lacking, at the trial of the deputy sheriff. If Oklahoma does not pay, the national government ought to pay. It may be impossible for us to give up our national crime habits. But we should be willing to pay for our pleasure, when innocent foreigners are victims.

Striking news of recent days is the Pope's strong attack on Mussolini. He is not mentioned by name, but there is no mistaking the meaning of the encyclical. Mussolini is referred to by the Pope as "the one who not only represents all, but who can do all and who confirms it in official or quasi-official publications dedicated to the young."

LACK OF MONEY DELAYING WORK ON NEW LIGHTS

Shortage Compels Reduction In Service Department Force

MAY FINISH JOB WITHIN 2 MONTHS

All Workers On Improvement Project Are Salem Men

Lack of funds needed to pay workers will result in a delay of probably two weeks in completion of work on the improvement and extension of the Salem residential lighting system, Clyde R. Reich, director of the department of public service, announced today.

With one of the most extensive improvement programs ever outlined here under way, Reich said his department is seriously handicapped by lack of money. While the city is still able to continue work on reconstruction of the lighting system, reductions have been forced in the number of men employed on the project.

The service director predicted that the new light system will be completed in six or eight weeks. It had previously been planned to have the system turned on by August 1.

Eight weeks ago 87 men were on the department's payroll. After a shortage of funds became apparent the payroll was cut to 59 with additional reductions, bringing the number of employees to 22, being made in the past two weeks.

All workers employed by Reich's department are Salem residents, the department having given, at various times during the summer, work to approximately 100 persons who otherwise would have been unemployed.

More than $10,000 will be spent on labor during work on the lighting system while the department's payroll on other work will probably exceed $8,000, Reich estimated.

Rapid progress has been made in installation of one complete new circuit in the south end of the city and east to Fourth st. Reich said. All cables have been laid in those areas while lights may be turned on for the first time on North Union, Washington, Woodland, Ohio, Franklin and other streets early next week. Other circuits will not be completed for some time, however, Reich stated, but he hopes to be able to finish up with them by the latter part of August despite the decrease in the number of employees.

New lights are being installed in all residential sections of the city together with annexed areas. The new lights, Reich says, will be a great improvement over the old system.

Other Work Underway

In addition to work on the lighting system's reconstruction, Reich's department has been kept busy on important projects in improvement of the city's sewer and drainage system, grading of alleys, street intersections, scraping of dirt streets, installing of new catch basins and remodeling at the waterworks pumping station.

A new compressor has been installed in the pumping station at an estimated cost of $6,000.

The intersection of South Broadway and Euclid st. and intersection of East State st. with Madison and Park ave. have been rounded out, paved and graded. Catch basins and sewer connections have been placed in various sections of the city.

New Damage Action Filed In Auto Case

LISBON, July 11.—A second damage action as a result of an automobile wreck has been filed in common pleas court here against Dean D. Weber, owner of a Buick sedan, which was damaged in a collision with a Buick sedan owned by John E. Baucknecht on behalf of Gerald Weber of East Palestine.

Weber claims that his machine was partially wrecked, and that he suffered personal injuries when his car was struck by one being driven by Mindling, who is a minor, but who was acting as agent for his father C. F. Mindling, the owner of the car. Weber seeks $1,235.06 damages.

Notary Candidates Examined In Court

A written examination of applicants for commissions as notaries public was conducted in common pleas court No. 1 this morning, at which time notice was given that the next examination would not be held until Jan. 9, 1932.

The committee of examiners is composed of Atty. Gen. Joel H. Sharp of Salem and William H. Vodrey, Jr., of East Liverpool, both having been recently appointed by Judge W. F. Lones. Results of the examination will be made known to the court before applications for commissions are approved.

A public hearing on the proposed redistricting of Salem precincts will be held in the office of the county board of elections, 323 Market st., East Liverpool, Tuesday, July 21, John W. Moore, election board clerk, announced today.

In effect for primaries

If no protests are received at the hearing, the new precincts will become effective immediately and will govern voting at the August 11 primaries in Salem.

Probes Tortures

That juvenile lawbreakers caught in the toils of the federal government are being tortured, created as hardened criminals and confined in jails where the extent of "filth and misery is impossible to convey" was part of the findings of Dr. Miriam Van Waters (above), consultant to the Harvard school crime survey and former referee of the Los Angeles juvenile court. The Wickersham commission made a report to President Hoover on the findings of Dr. Van Waters.

HANSEN TO GIVE 'GANGLAND' TALK AT CHAUTAUQUA

Former Assistant Prosecutor at Chicago Is Lecturer

Salem's 1931 Chautauqua program which opens July 28 will offer an unusually interesting group of attractions. Timely topics of the day are discussed by authorities in these fields; the music is of an exceptionally high standard and the field of the drama is well taken care of in the presentation of three modern comedies.

Speaks On Second Night

C. Ray Hansen, on the second night of Chautauqua week, will discuss "Government by Gangland." Mr. Hansen, formerly assistant prosecuting attorney of the city of Chicago, has always taken an active part in civic affairs and for years has been prominent in the fight of the better interests against gang control in his city. His discussion of municipal affairs in the different cities is not only most interesting, but clean-cut in its analysis of such conditions with a constructive plan for betterment, if the voters themselves are sufficiently interested in their government.

Mrs. Adalain Wright Macaulay will discuss relations with the European countries with special emphasis on the problems of world peace. She uses for her subject, "Are Kings and Queens Humane?" Mrs. Macaulay is past president of the American Legion auxiliary and of the women's division of P. O. E.

Analysis On Economics

A thorough analysis of present day economic conditions will be given by Charles H. Plattenburg on the fifth afternoon of the week. Mr. Plattenburg is a newspaper man, who has lectured for years on business problems. His present discussion of "The Old Town in a New World" takes up the study of business cycles in our economic life and today's so-called technological unemployment. His lecture is one of the outstanding contributions of Chautauqua this season.

Sheriff's Prisoner Fights Extradition

LISBON, July 11.—C. S. Elliott, who was arrested by Deputies Sheriff George Hays and William Virgo near Hammondsville on a warrant received by Sheriff W. J. Barlow from Bellefonte, Pa., will fight extradition, it is announced. He has engaged counsel at Steubenville to appear before Gov. George White when a hearing on the application has been determined.

Elliott has been charged in the Pennsylvania warrant with the destruction of property, and of the breaking and entering of a building. He is now being held at the county jail here awaiting disposition of his case at Columbus.

Renamed Chaplain

W. P. Davis, member of Salem canon No. 11, Patriarchs Militant, has been appointed chaplain for the department of Ohio, and this appointment was confirmed at the council session at Hamilton this week.

Davis was also district representative to the grand encampment, which was held at Hamilton, just preceding the council session. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have just returned from Hamilton.

SOLONS WILL SET POLLING PLACES

Descriptions of Precinct Changes Go To Election Board

A public hearing on the proposed redistricting of Salem precincts will be held in the office of the county board of elections, 323 Market st., East Liverpool, Tuesday, July 21, John W. Moore, election board clerk, announced today.

In effect for primaries

If no protests are received at the hearing, the new precincts will become effective immediately and will govern voting at the August 11 primaries in Salem.

The hearing date was set by Moore following receipt of precinct descriptions from City Engineer F. S. Barkhoff. Two new precincts, C in the Second ward and E in the Fourth ward, are proposed, increasing the total precincts here from 11 to 13.

Changes are proposed in all existing precinct boundaries. Typewritten notices of changes will be posted in each precinct for information of the city's voters. C. A. Cavanaugh, election board member, said today.

Council To Fix Polls

Boundaries of precincts were changed to conform with territory recently annexed by the municipality from Perry township, bringing in between 400 and 500 more votes, according to Cavanaugh.

Members of city council, in their meeting Tuesday, August 4, one week prior to the primaries, will establish polling places for the voters in the 13 precincts. Changes will probably be made in several precincts in an effort to centralize polls, Cavanaugh said.

MULLINS PLANT IN 'TALKIE' FILM

Development of New Metal Sinks to Be Illustrated

Illustrating development of new metal sinks, talking pictures taken at the Mullins Manufacturing corporation where the sinks are made, will be shown Monday and Tuesday at the State theater.

Developed by the International Nickel company of New York as a part of a nation-wide campaign for exploitation of the new products before the United States public, the pictures will be shown simultaneously in more than 70 playhouses throughout the country, plant officials announced this morning.

The pictures trace construction of the sinks from the earliest stages to the finished product.

In January, 1930, the Mullins Manufacturing corporation started work on the design and engineering of the new metal sink product, an innovation in America's industrial world. Cooperating with the International Nickel company, the Salem plant made marked progress. The talking pictures are designed to familiarize persons with the new sink. The new product has also been displayed in foreign countries, bringing almost world-wide advertising to the Mullins plant and the city of Salem, officials point out.

Bridge Planned On Lisbon-Elkton Rd.

The state highway department will open bids at Columbus July 28 for the erection of a new bridge over Millstone creek east of the Lisbon-Elkton rd. It will be 71 feet long and the span will be 59.16 feet with the roadway 30 feet. A three foot sidewalk will be built on the north and side of the bridge. The detour route around this new project has not been determined.

Lisbon Will Get New Roundhouse

LISBON, July 11.—Construction of a steel, concrete and brick "round house" by the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western Railroad Co., has begun here, which will replace the former building that was destroyed by fire last May. The building will cost approximately $5,000.

The old building was a frame structure. The company suffered a loss of about $20,000 as a result of the fire, as the combination gasoline baggage and passenger coach was destroyed as was a steam road engine. The new building is expected to be completed within eight weeks.

66 BOY SCOUTS IN CAMP AT DUNN EDEN LAKE

Sixty-six Boy Scouts, members of Columbiana county and Chester and Newell, W. Va. troops, are attending the first period of the annual scout camp at Dunn Eden lake, six miles north of Salem.

Located west of the lake, in a dense woods that enables scouts to familiarize themselves with many forms of outdoor life, the camp has several new features added to its curriculum this year. The present term, one of two weeks, ends on July 18 following which a second group of scouts will encamp for the lake.

Fishing, bathing, boating, handicraft work, archery and various other recreational activities are held at the camp under supervision of Charles E. Felton, county scout executive. One of the outstanding features of the camp is an Indian village, arranged in true "Redman" style with tepee tents, totem poles where Indian dancing, campfire ceremonies, the Indian sign language predominate.

Several Salem scouts are attending in the camp. The second period is scheduled July 20 to Aug. 1 and the third and final period from Aug. 3 to Aug. 15.

COURT UPHOLDS FALL SENTENCE; DELAYS ACTION

Justice Bailey Will Entertain Motion For Modification

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Albert B. Fall today was denied suspension of his one year jail term, but Justice Bailey in the District of Columbia supreme court did not immediately order him to jail.

Justice Bailey informed Frank Hogan, Fall's counsel, that he would entertain a motion to modify Fall's sentence, to add a day to the year given him.

Will Decide Monday

Justice Bailey said he wanted to pass on the matter next Monday. He said that if a day were added to the sentence it would give the attorney general the power to designate the prison in which Fall's sentence is to be served.

Hogan replied that he would communicate with his client immediately and would inform the judge as soon as possible whether Fall would consent to the motion to modify the term.

Justice Bailey said there had been no material change in Fall's condition since he was convicted in 1929 and that a suspension of sentence would in effect mean that the former secretary of the interior would escape punishment.

Suggests El Paso Jail

He added that the danger to Fall's health by imprisonment seemed largely that which would result if he were brought from El Paso to the more humid climate of Washington.

Bailey then made the suggestion that a motion be made by the defense to modify the sentence. If this were granted, as Bailey indicated it would be, the attorney general then could send Fall to another institution than the District of Columbia jail. He might choose El Paso, where Fall is now, since the climate there is dry.

EAST LIVERPOOL MAN ACCUSED IN DEATH OF GIRL

Walter Kountz, 30, Facing Count in Fatality Near Wellsville

ACTION ADVISED BY CORONER STURGIS

Verdict Declares Accident Was Caused by Reckless Driving

Acting on recommendations of Coroner Ernest R. Sturgis, a manslaughter charge was filed today by Police Chief J. H. Fultz of Wellsville against Walter Kountz, 30, of East Liverpool, as an aftermath of an automobile accident Thursday night in which Iris Coleman, 16, of Long Bottom, O., was instantly killed.

Arraigned Today

The charge was filed by Fultz in the court of Mayor George S. Hardman in Wellsville. Kountz, who is in East Liverpool City hospital suffering from a fractured left elbow sustained in the crash, will be arraigned before Hardman for preliminary hearing this afternoon.

Corner Sturgis, in recommending the arrest of Kountz, returned a verdict that "Miss Coleman's death resulted from an accident caused by reckless driving on the part of Walter Kountz" in an inquest held in Wellsville City hall Friday afternoon.

The accident occurred near Silver's Switch on the East Liverpool-Wellsville rd., witnesses at the inquest testifying that the car driven by Kountz, which collided with one driven by Russell Baughman, 21, of Wellsville, was traveling at a high rate of speed.

Take Girl's Body Home

The body of Miss Coleman, who had been a guest at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Rayl of Lacroft, was taken to Longbottom Friday night. Funeral service will be held there today.

Baughman is in the East Liverpool City hospital with a fractured skull and lacerations on his head, neck and hands. William Rayl, 21, and his sister, Miss Dorothy, 17, were cut and bruised. Kountz was unaccompanied.

SECRET PLACES

By Joan Sutherland

Synopsis of Preceding Installments

Feodor Staire, 36 years old, who was attached to the British Embassy in Paris, had been bored by the modern, hard-boiled young girl until he met Toni Wareham, daughter of Lady Alice Wareham. They were engaged after a whirlwind, 24-hour courtship. He was to marry in October, and the Warehams had gone to Le Touquet for the summer. Staire met Toni, through Ronald Halkett, an old friend, who a few months before had married Toni's beautiful elder sister, Greta. Greta had much time on her hands as Ronald's newspaper work kept him busy early and late, and she was much in the company of the wealthy Countess Henri de la Roche, whose reputation was not of the best. He persuaded her to accept a costly emerald and Staire saw her going into a private gambling club with D'Arblay, but he did not know that she had $80,000 francs, which D'Arblay paid. Since Toni's engagement, Greta had been jealous of her, as Staire's wealth and social position would give her young sister many advantages. Soon after the Warehams went to Le Touquet, Greta left hurriedly for Paris, saying she was going to her dentist's. Feodor, expecting that day, had wired that work kept him in the city, and Toni decided to see him in Paris. She found him at dinner with Greta, and would not accept his truthful explanation that as Ronald was busy, Greta had invited him to dinner.

INSTALLMENT XI
Feodor Staire bade Greta good-night and walked downstairs and out to the Avenue. Everything there was very still with the heavy summer heat that hung over Paris like a veil. It was only about eleven, but since Toni had refused to see him, it was no good waiting at the apartment, and he turned eastwards, walking furiously. That Toni should have so instantly and readily believed evil of him was a shock he felt almost unable to endure; his own temper, passionate and strong, had many years ago been fought and tamed, to outward control at least, not only by reason of the exigencies of his profession but because he was wise enough to realize that its indulgence might wreck his life. But beneath that control his passions were violent and deep-seated. He had given to Toni, this young girl—who did not like young girls—not only the fierce desires of his maturity, but love and tenderness such as he had not believed existed within him. In her he had found a refuge from loneliness, a companionship at once fresh and entrancing, a response that amazed him; and he had not realized, what even now he did not fully understand, was her own depth of feeling for him. He knew women; but the modern Jeanne fille was outside of his ken; he did not even guess remotely at the truth, which was that Toni was so over-wrought by her love and her fears, that she was in no mood to act reasonably.

Near the bottom of the Avenue Georges V he paused, then signalled to a prowling taxi and was driven over to the Boulevard Montparnasse, where he went to a cafe and sat down at the one vacant seat he saw on the pavement. He seldom visited the Quartier; still more rarely the cafes; but tonight the thought of his own apartment, or the company of any of his friends, was insupportable. He wanted something to take him out of himself, something to watch that could not remind him of the Paris he knew, and therefore of Toni, and so he sat outside the cafe and drank coffee from a tall thick glass, and let his glance roam idly about the crowds.

It was the usual melée: Pseudo-artists, models, staring tourists—American and English—entranced by what they believed to be the real student life of the famous Parisian Latin; all were there; the usual bizarre clothes worn to attract; the usual poses; and the usual blagues, all the odds and ends and decads. Feodor's face wore an expression of cynical amusement though when some one touched his shoulder from behind he started violently, and his upper lip drew back from his teeth in what was almost a snarl.

A girl stood close beside him, a girl in a smart black tight-fitting little coat, a black skirt and a wide brimmed black felt hat, faintly set on her shock of red curly hair. Her face was very white, her lips scarlet, her eyes—unexpectedly dark—were amazing in her exotic face.

"You're Feodor Staire, aren't you?" she said in English, in a voice that was unexpectedly educated. "You were at Ravel's studio when he was painting me—a 'Vestral of Commodus'—you remember?" Feodor rose to his feet with a brief ironical bow.

"I remember—"

She nodded, dragging off her hat and smoothing the curly red hair. "I knew you would—not I am Greta. But it's so, all the same. Are you alone?"

"Yes, mademoiselle."

"Which means you wish to be. I do not interfere—but where is Ravel?"

"Hasn't he paid you?" Feodor said, and Greta's eyes flared dangerously.

"He always pays," she retorted. "I thought he was a friend of yours. Pardon me—and you say we are not loyal?"

She looked him up and down in swift insolence, snatched her hat, and turning on her heel stroled down the narrow gangway by

Well Remembered

Master Sergeant Peter E. Boyle (above), World War veteran, returning next June after 30 years of service with the U. S. Army, was pleasantly surprised the other day when he received a $6,000 bequest from Colonel Charles H. Paine, who died in California last year. Paine was Boyle's commanding officer in 1912 and for many years thereafter. Boyle, stationed at Governors Island, N. Y., says he has no idea why he was remembered in his superior's will.

mood to crawl yet. I suppose I'll have to, but not for the moment. I'm catching the 12 train back. Don't give me away even to Ronald. That's all I ask."

Two hours later Feodor, in the throes of deciphering an important foreign document dealing with disaster threatening in the Far East, found a secretary at his elbow.

"There is someone on the telephone asking for you, sir. It is—private."

"Private?" Feodor looked up sharply. "Who is it?"

Young Rawlinson hesitated, then: "It's a Lady, sir," he said, Miss Wareham she says she is sorry to disturb you, but it is urgent."

Feodor controlled his start as best he could.

"Yes, put her on, please," and lifting the receiver was not quite steady. "Hello!" he said, and heard the door of his room close, "hello—who is that?"

Back along the wire came Toni's voice, swift, unsteady.

"Is that you, Feodor? It's Toni—Toni. I'm at the Gare du Nord. Just leaving—will you forgive me? I'm so desperately sorry. I was an idiot—Feodor—Feodor—" And then silence.

No belt is worn with this frock which makes up delightfully in voile, georgette, lawn, dimity or flat crepe.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years at 9:45 a. m. Wednesday evening testimony meeting at 8 o'clock.

The Bible selections include the following from Philippians 3:13, 14; "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth until those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds. To keep the commandments of our Master and follow His example, is our proper debt to Him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that He has done" (4-3).

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN
East State St. at Woodland Ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor.

Sixth Sunday after Trinity, Sunday school 9:45 (Acts 4:1-14), H. E. Smith, supt.

The early church made progress by the preaching of the gospel of Christ by the apostles. They were weak messengers but the message was mighty unto salvation. There was boldness in their preaching that dared to defy the oppressive powers of that day. Conviction was the motive force that pushed them along the rough way. It is marvelous today that in spite of weak and wavering messengers, in spite of destructive forces and opposing powers, the Gospel of Christ goes marching on to victory. Our day needs men and women of courage and conviction to stand upon the corners of the market place and at the bench and at the desk to stand valiantly for Christ and His teachings.

Morning worship, 11:00; order for public confession; sermon, "Approved Righteousness"; Holy Communion.

Exaltation of humanity seems rampant today. The invidious doctrines of Humanism have made their appeal to many. Man and his accomplishments have been gloried beyond measure. Skyscrapers have become the modern towers of Babel. Righteousness of the world with no place for God has pushed its face insistently into the scenes of life. For all such teachings, our Lord without restraint rebuked the proud humanists of his day. He closed the doors of heaven to all who seek to find security in such self-praise and glory. Man cannot save himself. In fact he cannot help save himself. It is a complete salvation that Jesus Christ has wrought. Only the righteousness that is appropriated from Our Savior will be accepted in heaven.

CHURCH OF OUR SAVIOUR
870 East State st., Rev. Christian A. Roth, rector.

Services Sunday July 12, the sixth Sunday after Trinity. Celebration of the Holy Communion, 7:30; Church school 9:30; morning prayer and sermon 11.

Thought For The Week
"The Pharisees were the salt of Israel's religion for centuries. Christ must have known and appreciated the goodness of these men. But there is no disguising the fact of the rift between Christ and the Pharisees. It was not, however, personal antagonism and was far removed from enmity. Jesus said: Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the Pharisees ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven. In the teaching of our Lord no place is allowed for pride in spiritual achievements."

It was the Pharisees' sense of pride in their undoubted excellence which caused the rift between them. It was because the Pharisees were consciously ostentatious in their religion. And mark you, the moment people become ostentatious, either in social life or religion, they are 'actors'. They pose. This is why our Lord called the Pharisees 'actors' or 'hypocrites'.

"Pharisee boasted leaning upon the fact that he did all things commanded; as a consequence, he became spiritually inflated. In the Christian religion modesty and humility are exalted to a high place in the category of spiritual values."

"He is a good man who has done the best he could, however bad he may appear to be. He is a bad man who has not done the best he could, however good he may appear to be."

COME TO CHURCH SUNDAY

A MESSAGE TO PARENTS

Before your children came, do you remember how your feelings were of hope, fear, speculation—depressed one day—cheerful the next?

How you prayed that all would be well, and that the Lord would give the mother strength for the trial and bless the baby with health?

And do you remember how thankful you parents were when your prayers were answered and how you joined in praising the Lord for his goodness and mercy to you?

It is so long ago—now—

And the children are fast growing into young men and women and we wonder—

Do you feel as close to God as you did when the babies were born?

Do you, as frequently as possible, show your gratitude for blessings received?

If you do—you go to church—and you take the children to church.

Remember, until the children reach the age of reason, you, as their parents, are responsible for their moral and religious welfare.

"As the twig is bent the tree is inclined."

Fathers and mothers must always be examples (good or bad) for their children to follow.

If you do not go to church regularly, you cannot expect your children to grow up into God-fearing men and women. Gratitude to God for his kindness and mercy to you in your hour of need could not find a higher or better expression from you than in encouraging the children—by precept and practice—to go to church.

Sunday will be a good time to start.

Icy Message From Pulpit

Torrid weather has no respect for persons or places, and so when Dr. Christian F. Reiser, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York, found that he was waxing altogether too hot in his pulpit and the congregation was not surviving much better, he introduced an icy motif to his house of worship. While his verbal message from the pulpit was not tinged with frigidly, the ice and snow banked around the dais helped to put the congregation in a cooled state of mind, according to Dr. Reiser, who is shown above with his novel refrigerator plan.

The couple were married at New Cumberland, W. Va., July 3, 1926, and have one daughter, aged four. The plaintiff charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. Mrs. Cline has set up that on July 1 last, Cline ordered her to leave their home.

Mullins Favored To Retain Titular Honors In Second Half

THE DAY In Sports

NON-TITULAR FRACAS.
SHARKEY MEETS WALKER

Although the 15-round bout between Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker at Ebbets Field, July 22, promises the best action of any heavyweight tilt since Jack Dempsey's retirement the fight cannot be regarded as having any important bearing on the world's championship.

The New York Athletic commission probably will recognize the bout as a championship contest, but in reality it will be no more of a title bout than would a contest between "Big Boy" Peterson and "Bouncing" Basque. Uzcudun, two of Primo Carnera's set-up opponents.

Neither fighter has any legitimate claim to the title or, for that matter, to recognition as the outstanding contender for honors. True, Sharkey generally is regarded as the "uncrowned king" of the division, but he certainly has not proved his right to that title in the ring.

Walker, although undoubtedly the best man in the middleweight division, has done nothing to entitle him to ranking as a formidable heavyweight. He failed two years ago in an attempt to lift Tommy Loughran's light heavyweight crown and his activities in the unlimited class have been confined to two close decisions over washed-out Johnny Risko, a knockout of one "Bearcat" Wright (whoever he might be) and a suspicious "knockout" over poor old Heyer (Kayo) Christner, who appears to have won his "kayo" title because of the frequency with which he has taken the count.

Sharkey's record during the past two years is little more impressive. Jack has fought only 30 rounds since Jan. 1, 1929. He barely managed to win the decision over the same "Kayo" Christner in 10 rounds on Jan. 25, 1929. A month later he outboxed Young Stripling at Miami, in one of the worst bouts on record—a bout in which Stripling, if his trainers are to be believed, could use only one arm.

Sharkey staked his claim to the "American championship" on Sept. 26, 1929, when he knocked out Tommy Loughran, then only a lightweight, in three rounds.

His activities since that time have been confined to two bouts. Last February he knocked out "Phooling" Phil Scott, at Miami, in three rounds.

The victory over Scott qualified Sharkey for a "world championship" bout with Max Schmeling at Yankee Stadium last July and a low punch by the Bosnian in the fourth round deprived Sharkey of any right to claim the title.

Regardless of this unenviable record, Sharkey retained his influence with the New York Athletic Commission and that body attempted to force Schmeling to give Sharkey the first chance at the title.

When Schmeling refused the Commission suspended him and nominated Sharkey as the logical contender for honors, with the promise to recognize as champion the winner of the bout between Sharkey and any legitimate opponent.

Now that it is practically certain that the Cleveland Indians will open the stadium on July 26, with the world champions from Philadelphia as the attraction, the management of the Cleveland club has decided tentatively to accept reservations for the opening game.

The Cleveland club appreciates the fact that fans have been loyal supporters of the Indians. It regrets that often in past, because of small seating capacity at League park, it has not been able to take care of its patrons as it would have liked to. With the immense stadium at its disposal, this situation will no longer exist; there will be good seats for everybody.

Fans who are anxious to get choice seats for the game of Sunday, July 26, are now invited to place their mail order immediately. The reservations will be placed on file and filled in the order they are received at the ball club's League park office. Here are instructions to be followed: With your check or money order, send a large self-addressed stamped envelope. Due to the fact that the tickets, it is very important that a large envelope be used.

There will be 2,000 lower field boxes, tiers 1, 2, 3, 4 and 1100 first tier upper boxes at $1.75.

There will be 1200 lower boxes, tiers 5, 6 and 1200 upper boxes, first tier that will sell at $1.50; 2000 upper boxes, second tier at the same price.

Reserved seats in the grandstand will be $1.25. In the lower stand there are 18,000 such seats, in the upper stand 13,000. There will be

FOREMEN'S CLUB HOLDS EDGE IN SOFTBALL RACE

Double-Defeat Sustained By Hardware Big Help To Body-Makers

CHAMPIONS TO PLAY 2 GAMES NEXT WEEK

Clash with Pottery Team Monday, Then Oppose Laundry Tuesday

Mullins Foremen's club mush-buffers, easily the class of the Salem Softball league in the first half, today appeared heavy favorites to retain their championship laurels in the second half as a result of games played in the circuit during the past week.

Hardware Loses Twice
Boasting a great fielding team and one which led the league in hitting the first half, the body-makers showed increased power in rousing their main opponents, the Salem Hardware, and still look like the best of the field of ten teams. The Hardware, looked on as principal rivals to Mullins for the second half toga, dropped both of its games last week.

The double-defeat sustained by the 1930 champions was the surprise development of play last week while performance of the Community Service Station in defeating the Ohio Edison and the latter's dope-upsetting victory over the Hardware were other events of more than ordinary importance. Everything pointed towards another hectic titanic battle.

Mullins will be called on to defend its laurels twice next week, clashing with the Salem China company Monday then on Tuesday will face the American Laundry. The Pottery pulled out of the hole Thursday by noosing out the Kiwanis club, 7-6, in a real thriller while the Laundry dropped its first game to the Colonial Billiards by the one-sided 12-1 count.

Billiards Look Good
The Billiards must not be overlooked in selection of "titular contenders" this half but weakness on both offense and defense which hurt the team considerably in the opening round of play, may again prove a handicap. With a continuation of good slab performances by George McPeely and any kind of bickering in the field, the Colonials should finish among the first three.

They proved their strength in trouncing the Laundry and should take two games next week when they oppose the Cox Studios and the Ohio Edison. The fact that Mullins is favored to win the title again by no means indicates the champs have a stranglehold on the honor. In fact the team had plenty of trouble pulling through the first half, a timely defeat sustained by the Hardware when playing the Billiards aiding the body makers in their titanic drive. Every team in the circuit is still a contender.

Here is the schedule of games next week:

Monday

RALLY IN SIXTH WINS FOR CLUB; LAUNDRY AHEAD

Three Doubles in Sixth Inning Win 9-7 Tilt For Kiwanians

Three consecutive doubles after two men were out in the sixth score two runs and gave the Kiwanis club a 9-7 victory over the Community Station in the feature game at Centennial park Friday.

The Kiwanis "big three" in hitting, Cecil Scullion, Mike Schuller and Joe Kelly, were stars in bringing home the victory, each cracking out a double in the team's last turn at bat. "Ducky" Bard, succeeding "Mac" McCarthy in the fourth inning, was the winning hurler.

Laundry Trims Cigars
Taking advantage of three walks and as many hits in one inning, the American Laundry and Dry Cleaning company team registered seven runs in the third and coasted to an easy 9-5 victory over the United Cigars. Camp was the victim of the winners' big inning with England doing mound duty for the victors.

KEPLER ANNEXES AMATEUR TITLE

Ohio State Star Defeats Scotty Reston, 4 up, In Tourney Finals

COLUMBUS, O., July 11.—The trophy symbolizing supremacy among Ohio's amateur golfers will reside in Dayton for the next 12 months.

Bob Kepler, number one player of the Ohio State university links team but representing the Montgomery county city in other competition, won the state amateur title by defeating his fellow townsman, Scotty Reston, four up and three to go, in the final match of the annual tournament at the Wyandot club here yesterday.

The Daytonians entered the final round after a week's battle in which they humbled some of the state's best, including Glenn Bishop, defending champion, Johnny Flacio, titlist in 1929, Eddie Markle, Emmett Milholland, Theron Green, Frank Lewis, Joe Outhwaite, and Herb Bash.

Kepler, a member of the Northmore Country club, is the first Dayton player ever to win the championship and his victory takes the cup from Columbus for the first time in five years.

SLAB ACE HURLS A'S TO VICTORY OVER NEW YORK

Earnshaw Takes Mound for 3rd Time in 6 Days; Wins Long Duel

(By Associated Press)

Stout hearted George Earnshaw apparently has accepted the responsibility for keeping the Philadelphia Athletics in their accustomed position at the top of the American league standing.

Time Yankees 8-6
Yesterday the "Moose" went to the firing line for the third time in six days and pitched the champions to a victory over the New York Yankees in a 14-inning thriller, 8 to 6. Entering the game as a relief pitcher in the seventh inning, he withstood a blow that would have demoralized a less courageous moundman and stuck it out to win.

Going into the last of the ninth with a two-run lead, Earnshaw retired the first two batters and appeared to have the contest in the bag. Then Babe Ruth singled and his old sparring mate, Lou Gehrig, came through with a home-run in the right batters, tying the score.

Hurler Great Ball
Instead of becoming unsettled by the turn of events, Earnshaw settled down and blanked the Yankees for the next five innings until Bishop, Simmons and Fox blazed out the hits to win in the fourteenth.

The game marked Earnshaw's twenty-third appearance on the hill this year and gave him his fifteenth victory against four defeats. This was only the one game in the American league, rain preventing the other scheduled bout at Washington.

What activity there was in the National served only to stretch the St. Louis Cardinals' lead over the field. Gabby Street's mackmen scored their third straight victory over the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1, while the Brooklyn Robins were being noosed out, 4 to 3, by the Boston Braves. As a result, the leaders today were four and a half games ahead of the New York Giants, who were held idle by rain, and five games in front of Brooklyn.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Swedish hors d'oeuvre
To the uninitiated, a first visit to a Swedish restaurant brings forth the same exclamation at first sight of the "smorgasbord": "What an enormous meal!" Oh, no, this is only the hors d'oeuvre.

For a Swedish hors d'oeuvre consists of a dozen or two of assorted appetizers. Two or three kinds of cheese, or more; fish smoked, pickled and in salad; many kinds of cold vegetables spiced and submerged in a peppery dressing; cold sliced meats, fish and meat in aspic, not to mention pickles, olives, pickled onions, and delicacies like caviar, lobster, plus two or three kinds of bread.

Even a modest appetite, is roused by this attractive display, and since all of the dishes are cold, a few samples will make a very pleasant meal on a warm night. (How anyone can pursue a standard series of courses after browsing among these various tidbits is something only a Scandinavian can understand. Mere soup, hot meats and cooked vegetables look insipid and humdrum.)

A complete smorgasbord must come rather too high for small family service. Yet the idea of adapting it to peculiarities of mid-Summer appetites may be helpful. No large quantity of any one dish is appealing in warm weather, even if one is hungry. But a little of a number of cold dishes will convey the proper amount of nourishment in enjoyable form.

Bits of fish, meats like chicken, sliced tongue and some sliced hard-boiled eggs, sliced tomatoes or cucumbers served in aspic are always cool to the eye and wholesome to the palate. Also, if the meal is to consist of hors d'oeuvre, one can try the expensive delicacies without feeling unduly extravagant. For a little sample of each is all that each requires.

Hard breads like breadsticks, crisp crackers, are a pleasant change from bread and a better accompaniment to these cool dishes.

Get the Milk Habit Now
Last winter Ethel made what she regarded as a wonderful personal discovery. Having been advised to forego coffee for a while, she began to drink milk for the first time in her memory and, lo and behold, it was the first winter she escaped without a single cold. Now, Ethel, staunchly believes that milk is a cold preventive.

That's too easy a cure-all to accept wholly. Nevertheless, there is enough truth in it to merit trial by those who don't drink milk at all. Milk stands near the top of the list of foods, not only for its nutritive value but for its vitamin content. While little, comparatively is known of the nature of vitamins, it has been demonstrated that they are an important safeguard against that scourge of civilized man—the common cold.

Since milk is an easy way of absorbing various vitamins, milk should be as much a habit as bread. A quart of milk a day is good, wholesome food for adults—with the exception of the very few who have developed a constitutional aversion for it. Then a doctor's guidance may lead them along the right road to milk drinking.

Now, while the weather is warm, is a good time to acquire the habit of drinking milk, gradually raising the practice from one glass to four glasses a day. It may be taken straight, sipped at breakfast time or between meals. Or, mixed with egg-chocolate or other syrups, or beaten up with the addition of sweet cream and flavoring. However, the more milk is taken plain, the easier the habit is established.

It is astonishing that so many grownups, familiar with rules of good diet, nevertheless avoid milk on the theory that it is fattening. One would have to drink quite a lot to see the pounds added by milk itself! Milk is an all-round food—one of the best guardians of general good health, and it is a mistake to regard it as children's food exclusively.
